

Please create a simple JavaScript app that allows a user to manage a shopping list. The user should be able to add, edit and delete any item in the list. You do not need to create any server based logic for this, the items can be just stored on the client. If you wish to use a framework for this you can. Do not worry about the styling of the app, this is purely a JavaScript task.

If you have any questions send them to mike@refme.com